FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

AGRICULTURE INSPECTION STATION OPEN FOR BUSINESS INTERSTATE 15 AT NEVADA STATE LINE

SAN BERNARDINO— The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) has completed work on Phase II at the Joint Port of Entry (JPOE) on southbound Interstate 15 (I-15) just south of the California/Nevada state line. The $43 million project constructed a new Agriculture Inspection Station (AIS) facility and has removed the existing Agricultural Station in Yermo, California. The project was completed by Granite Construction Company.

The new alignment of I-15 at the Nevada State Line will allow trucks to enter Phase I of the JPOE to access the California Highway Patrol Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Facility and now four lanes of traffic will continue through the new AIS for agricultural inspection.

Motorists are advised that traffic volumes are high on southbound I-15 at state line typically on holiday weekends and Sundays for return traffic from travel outside of California. Please plan your commute before you travel, add extra time or leave early or later to avoid delays during those periods.
